One Killed As Auto Runs Off Road On Curve In Light Fog

One man was killed Thursday, last week, about 9:30 p.m. when the automobile he was driving ran off state road No. 141 about 4 1/2 miles west of Elba, according to investigation of Highway Patrolman J. D. Wambles.

He was Graham Adams, 50, of Rt. 2, Elba. The car overturned on the right side of the road on a curve in rainy and foggy weather. A passenger, Leavy Cowens of Rt. 2, Elba, escaped injury.

Adams is survived by one sister, Miss Mattie Adams of Elba.

Funeral was held Saturday from Mount Zion Methodist Church with the Rev. J. E. Plant officiating. Burial was in Mount Zion cemetery.

The death of Adams brought to four the number of deaths in automobile accidents in Coffee county in 1960 as compared with five the year previous.

Income Tax Guide For Farmers Used

AUBURN — It's that time of year again—time for farmers to be gathering information for completing income tax forms.

Although farmers can file an estimate by January 15 and pay the estimated amount of tax at that time, they must complete a regular return and pay any additional tax by April 15. According to Extension Economist Foy Helms, most farmers prefer to do the whole job at once; consequently, they will be making their returns before February 15.

Copies of the Farmer's Tax Guide prepared by the Internal Revenue Service can be obtained from county agents. The 1961 Guide is the same in organization as last year's, and the page numbers are identical so that comparisons can be made readily.

There are several revisions in the tax laws this year. But the Auburn Economist says that county agents have specific details on the changes and may be contacted for explanations.

New Store Hours And Penny Parking Begun

Control of Cattle Grubs Saves Money

Packers annually throw away enough grub-damaged meat to feed 85,000 people a year. And the cattle raiser is the man who suffers this loss. Cattle grubs cost the cattleman of this country over $100 million annually. Alabama contributes a large share to this waste.

Bob Farquhar, Auburn Extension beef cattle and sheep specialist, says that one of the most difficult of these pests to control is the heel fly because it never bites the host animal.

Each summer the heel fly lays its eggs on the legs and underside of cattle, the specialist says. These eggs hatch and live in the body of the animal through the summer months. Then about this time of year, the insects eat a hole in the side of the animal and emerge.

When this occurs, cattlemen can use insecticides (rotene) which is usually considered best under heavy pressure as a spray. The insecticide penetrates the holes cut in the animal's back and kills the grubs. Treatment should be repeated every 30 days, Farquhar says.

When smaller groups of cattle are treated, rotenone can be applied as a one to two per cent dust sprinkled on the back of the animal and rubbed in with a stiff brush.

New insecticides are now available for grub control which penetrate the hide and circulate through the blood system. Using this method of control, the grubs are killed before they damage the hide of the animal in the emerging process. However, these insecticides must be applied in late summer or early fall to be effective.

The Auburn livestockman says the first symptoms of grubs are bumps or swelling along the back or loin area of the animal.

Yes, There's Wrong Way to Wash Dishes

AUBURN — Did you know that there is an art to dishwashing?

There are definitely good and poor ways to do the job, says Elizabeth Bryan, Auburn Extension economist. Whether you wash by hand or in a machine doesn't make any difference, but what does matter is whether or not you have plenty of hot water and the right equipment and supplies.

Water should range from 100 to 120 degrees for satisfactory hand dishwashing, and from 140 to 160 degrees for machines. Final sanitizing rinse in both cases should be between 170 and 180 degrees. Detergents for dishwashing are better than soap, Miss Bryan says, because they soften hard water and dissolve dish soils.

TOM WHITEHEAD

Tom Whitehead, 78, of Elba, died Sunday, Jan. 1. He is survived by the widow, one son, J. T. Whitehead of Elba; three daughters: Mrs. Ruth Deason of Mazon, Ga.; Mrs. Vivian Bradshaw of Elba; and Mrs. Cathlene Smith of Ozark; 11 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at Wesley Chapel with the Rev. Bennie Criswell officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Parking meter enforcement and stores open Thursday afternoon highlighted the New Year in Elba this week.

Stores in Elba will be open this afternoon as merchants start their first week of being closed Wednesday afternoon and open Thursday afternoon.

Police were busy Tuesday as enforcement of parking meters was resumed after a three-month lapse, and motorists who didn't forget were again paying a penny to park. Those who forgot were at least equal to those who remembered on the first day.

"Oh yes" was the response of many a housewife who went to the store Wednesday afternoon, "I knew it but it just slipped my mind."

New Bank Hours

The Elba Exchange Bank closed all day Wednesday, instead of Thursday as in the past, and hereafter will be open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Thursday and Friday but will reopen in the evening from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. both days.

The shift-over in closing time was voted by the Chamber of Commerce to cooperate with farmers and the Elba Livestock Auction held each Thursday.

The Elba Post Office will observe the same hours as the stores.

Overloaded Freezer Reduces Quality

AUBURN — Putting too much unfrozen food in the home freezer at one time can impair the quality, says Isabelle Downey, Auburn Extension food preservation specialist.

Overloading the freezer with unfrozen food may raise the temperature above zero degrees—the minimum for proper storage. Food slowly frozen or stored above this temperature loses its flavor, color, and texture, the specialist says.

A maximum of 40 to 60 pounds of unfrozen food can be placed in the coldest part of a 20 cubic foot freezer at one time. After this is completely frozen, which usually takes from 12 to 24 hours, more can be added, Miss Downey adds.

The Coffee county Christmas Seal campaign is progressing faster this year than last, but is still far short of the goal. The goal is $2,251 of which $1,068.09 has been raised. Coffee county made its goal in late January, last year.

Lice Worst Cattle Pest During Winter

AUBURN — "Cattlemen can save a lot of feed, get much higher gains in the feed lot, and avoid winter slumps in milk production simply by controlling lice on cattle," says Jerry Ruffin, Auburn Extension entomologist.

Ruffin says that any one of the following insecticides mixed with 100 gallons of water will control all kinds of lice: one pound 25 percent wettable indane, 25 pounds of 50 percent W methoxychlor, 10 pounds of 40 percent W toxaphene, seven and one-half pounds of five percent rotenone or one and one-half gallons of 57 percent emulsifiable malathion.

Rotene, however, is the only one of these materials which can be used on lactating dairy cows.

Coloring Tells If Hen Is Producing

AUBURN — Experienced poultrymen find the culling job easy because they know what to look for when they search for nonproducing birds.

Jim Hubbard, Auburn Extension poultryman, says that a bird's coloring tells whether or not she is producing. The vent takes on a bleached appearance five to seven days after the bird comes into production. The eye ring bleaches in 10 to 14 days, the ear lobe in 10 to 16 days, the beak in four to six weeks, and the shank in four to six months, Hubbard says. And he adds that when a bird goes out of production, color returns to the parts in the same order.

Intelligence Held Many Sided Thing By Psychologists

The next time a worried parent asks the teacher about his child's intelligence, here are six questions on which he's likely to get a wealth of information: What is intelligence? How is it tested? Are intelligence and talent the same? Should parents be told their child's IQ? How are test results used? Does IQ change?

The most recent research on these questions is being made available for teachers to share with parents through a booklet now being distributed by the National Education Association to more than a million educators. The booklet, "A Briefing for Parents: Your Child's Intelligence," was prepared by the editors of the NEA Journal.

Not in One Piece

In general, seven experts who contributed to the booklet have this to say:

Intelligence is not something that comes in one piece. It is a variety of mental abilities that may be balanced in infinite ways. A successful mathematician, for example, may have the ability to reason mathematically, yet be poor in simple arithmetic. Or a person with a large vocabulary and an ability to understand complicated prose may be unable to express himself fluently. When a child's abilities are discovered, they give teachers and guidance counselors a "mental profile" which is more useful than an IQ rating.

A variety of group and individual tests are available which measure tasks believed to require intelligence, but intelligence itself cannot be measured directly. In general, these tests measure a child's ability to learn what he is supposed to learn in school. They are not a complete index of his brain power, nor do they show a full range of his intellectual capacity.

There are both dangers and advantages to parents knowing their child's IQ, but they do tell teachers and guidance counselors much about a child's progress.

Copies of "A Briefing for Parents: Your Child's Intelligence" may be ordered from the National Education Association, 1201 16th St., N. W., Wash. 6, D. C. Single copy 10c plus postage, self-addressed envelope. Packages of $5 for $1.

Passes Third Week Seriously Injured As Auto Hits Tree

James Ronald Williams, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Williams of Route 4, Elba, passed from an unconscious to semi-conscious condition in the third week following his injury on Elba-Victoria highway when the automobile he was driving ran off the road and hit a tree.

The youth was taken from Gibson hospital, Enterprise, to Cobb-Moore hospital, Phenix City, Thursday, last week for attention by a brain specialist, after two weeks of unconsciousness as result of the accident.

During the third week attending physicians described his improvement as reaching a semi-conscious condition.

Williams, salesman for an Enterprise automobile firm, had been in Victoria to see a prospect for sale of a car, and while there he had visited a girl friend, leaving about 10 p.m. More than two hours later he was found in his wrecked automobile by a passing truck driver.

Tigers To Take On Ozark After Two Straight Defeats

Tiger Cagers of Coach Bill Strickland will try to get back on the winning track tonight in Ozark when they meet with Coach Grady Elmore's likelihood of a straight loss after winning their first four games of the season. They were whipped by Enterprise, 43-39 in a light contest Dec. 15 and then beaten by Laverne in the first round of the Laverne Invitational Christmas Tourney.

The Tigers must still be considered a definite line, which was held last year by Enterprise. They hold a record of 2-1 in this conference with wins over Andalusia and Hartford and a single loss to Enterprise.

The Ozark Eagles have moved down seven straight opponents before taking a loss to the Tigers in the final round of the Bi-State Christmas Tourney. Grady Elmore, Jr., son of the Ozark coach, lends his team with a 20-plus scoring average.

The Bee Contest will be held at 6:30 and the varsity contest at 8. The Tigers also meet Laverne Tuesday night in Laverne.

Tractors Helpful In Power Mishaps

AUBURN—An electrical power failure is inconvenient to all, but for a dairyman who uses electrical milking equipment such a mishap can be ruinous.

For such emergencies, the vacuum built up in the intake manifold of a tractor engine can be used to operate the milking machine, says J. T. Juillard, Auburn Extension farm mechanization specialist.

Drive the tractor to a window of the milking barn, the specialist says, and make a connection through the window between the intake manifold and the suction line of the milking machine with a heavy duty hose. The tractor motor may not build up enough vacuum to operate as many units as the milking machine pump, and one unit may be the limit with some tractors, he adds.

A small air-cooled gasoline engine can also be used for emergency power.

PROMOTION AND HIGHER PRICES...

All business magazines, financial sections of national publications, and privately circulated business letters, couple three factory in the outlook for business, particularly in the first half of 1961:

- (1) High Prices
- (2) More efficient operation;
- (3) Promotion!

Since prices will continue high, and increase in some lines, business must seek more efficient methods of operation and promote their sales. If we are to consider the observations of nationally known financial writers and apply it to Elba, we would say that the merchants of Elba need to promote aggressively those values they offer which are just as great or greater than in Enterprise, Dothan or Montgomery.

The Elba business community as a whole must be congratulated for its response to promotion of the Choctawhatchee - Pea River Development Association, promoter of the Elba Industrial Corporation, a change in the weekly half-holidays to cooperate with the Farmers Livestock Auction.

They need to increase their promotion in letting the people of Western Coffee County know the advantages of buying in Elba.

JUST HUMAN, THAT'S ALL...

So John Fitzgerald Kennedy didn't choose Senator Fulbright for Secretary of State because he is a Southerner, from Arkansas whose capital city is Little Rock.

Fulbright, founder of the famous Fulbright Scholarships designed to create greater international understanding, is easily recognized as the outstanding authority on foreign relations on the American scene. So sure were those "in the know" that he would be chosen Secretary of State that Time Magazine published his picture, with a list of his qualifications, in the confident expectation that he would be chosen for the post.

But the incoming president believed that the new Secretary of State should be a man acceptable to the emerging new nations of Africa and Asia. A Senator from an American state identified with segregation, therefore, could not fill the post.

The question, therefore, presents itself: is that prejudice or sound diplomacy?

It all depends upon whose ox is being gored.

There's Right Way To Store Pecans

AUBURN — Worried about those valuable pecans getting rancid?

Well, there's no need, Isabelle Downey, Auburn Extension food preservation specialist, says that all you have to do is shell them, package them in moisture - vapor proof containers, and store them in the refrigerator.

Refrigerator storage will keep the nuts from developing an off-flavor for about nine months. And storage in a freezer raises the time range from one to two years. Miss Downey adds.

Sparkman Comments On Outlook At Next Meeting of Congress

By Senator Sparkman

We of the Alabama Congressional Delegation who returned to Washington for the holidays, as well as those who are spending them in the State, are looking forward to the new session of Congress. From all appearances it will be an exciting session. No doubt there will be controversies and differences of opinion on many legislative proposals. This is a healthy sign of democracy in action. There will also be some noteworthy accomplishments.

These legislative proposals will take many forms. We can get a good idea of some of them from looking back at legislation considered during the short session of Congress following the Democratic and Republican conventions in 1960.

Important Legislation

A summary of some of the legislation likely to be considered by the Congress in 1961 follows:

Minimum Wage: Attempts to raise the minimum wage from $1.00 per hour to as much as perhaps $1.25 hourly will surely be made. Last session Senator John Kennedy himself was most active in pushing a bill to cover about 4 million new workers with a graduated increase in the minimum wage to $1.25. Conferees were not able to resolve the differences between the House of Representatives and the Senate versions of the bill and it died in conference.

Health, Care For Aged: On September 13, 1960, the President signed an omnibus social security bill. The bill was a compromise measure dealing with health care for our senior citizens. Because this law fell short of including what President-elect Kennedy and certain others thought it should contain, I feel sure that we can anticipate efforts during the coming session and Congress to amend the program.

Depressed Areas: The people of Alabama have good reason to know the meaning of the term "depressed areas." During the eight years of the Eisenhower Administration the people in Florence, Sheffield, Gadsden, Talladega, and Birmingham became closely acquainted with this term. President-elect Kennedy has already appointed a committee to look into the depressed areas problem. In the event Congress can agree on such a problem I feel sure that the new President will not veto it as did President Eisenhower on two occasions during his administration.

Foreign Affairs: The manner in which our foreign relations are conducted during the next few years may well decide whether this nation shall endure as a free nation or fall under the yoke of international Communism. Our world is too small and Communism too big for one of us to think that he can remain unaffected by it. As a matter of fact, every man, woman, and child in the world is being affected by it already. Communism, seeking to advance toward its avowed goal of world domination and having swallowed up a great portion of Eastern Europe, all of Tibet, China, and North Korea, now works actively in other parts of Asia and Africa, South America, and, yes, Cuba, only 90 miles from our southern shores.

Limited Debate In The Senate: There is some possibility that some Senators may attempt to amend Senate Rule 22 which provides for debate on any subject until 2-3 of those present and voting vote to end debate. I do not want to see any curbs on debate in the United States Senate. Accordingly, I intend to work to prevent any change in this rule.

Farm Legislation: One of the most important functions of the new Congress will be to write a new farm program. We need a program that will reduce the cost to the government of taking care of farm surpluses. We need a program that will insure that the farmer receives a fair share of the national income. Above all we must find a way to maintain and improve what remains of the family system.

VICTORIA SOCIETY AND CHURCH NEWS

A large number enjoyed the Christmas program and tree at Bethlehem Baptist Church Friday night, last week.

The Intermediates and Juniors gave a special Christmas program and they formed the choir, sang Christmas Carols. A psalm, "They Came Bearing Gifts" was given by the little children.

Eager hearts and smiling faces were awaiting the gifts by Santa Clause and helpers. This was a treat to all those little children and especially the older ones.

Most of the children and grandchildren of families in the community spent Christmas at home with their parents. Among those who went away for Christmas were:

Pruning Important To Orchard Owners

AUBURN — Pruning fruit trees is a major task for orchard owners and home fruit tree growers during the winter months.

John Bagby, Auburn Extension horticulturist, says that pruning properly is necessary for producing good fruit, especially in young trees in orchards.

Proper methods of pruning depend on the tree. For example, peaches are borne on year-old wood. Trees are pruned rather heavily with an open center and are kept at a relatively low height. Apples bear on two-year old wood; therefore, trees are not pruned so severely and a central trunk is left with eight to ten side branches.

"Now's the time to prune," says the horticulturist, "because it's easier to tell which branches need to be cut when leaves are off."

Ennis predicts that Alabama farmers will keep putting idle land to use until an additional one and one-half million acres have been reclaimed.

Amazing as it may seem, these "new" acres which have been reclaimed in the last 11 years are equal to the total acreage of all the open farmland in three and one-half average Alabama counties, says Lawrence Ennis, Auburn Extension soil engineering specialist.

Internal Revenue Service Table Shows Allowable State Sales Tax Deductions

The Internal Revenue Service has set up a table indicating the average state sales tax payments which may be claimed as a deduction on federal income tax returns for 1960.

George D. Patterson, district director in Birmingham, said the table should be used as a guide by taxpayers who itemize their deductions instead of taking the standard deduction on Forms 1040 or 1040W.

In areas such as Elba where a city or county tax of 1 per cent is imposed over and above the 3 per cent state sales tax, an additional deduction—one-third of the amount in the table—may be added. This schedule does not apply to taxes imposed on cigarettes and gasoline, Patterson said.

The law requires taxpayers to substantiate any deductions claimed on their returns, Patterson said, and if requested they must be prepared to do so.

Ordinarily they will not be asked to produce records to support the sales tax deduction claimed unless it exceeds the amount shown in the table, the IRS director said. Taxpayers with questions on this subject may telephone the local IRS office.

You don't expect a child to stand toe to toe with a man. You lift a child . . . and hold him above you.

You don't expect a child to understand fully what is right and wrong.

You don't expect a child to comprehend every spiritual ideal.

You don't expect a child to sense instinctively the constant concern of God in his life.

You lift a child . . . you give him the opportunity in his Church and in his Christian home to gain moral and religious insights.

And you hold him above you . . . dedicating your own time and strength to your Church so that you and your child can find together the spiritual foundation on which men should build their lives.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a structure of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his child's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Alabama 4-H'ers Return From
Eventful Week At National Congress

Mary Pulliam, Zana Bailey, Paty Watkins, Wanda Scott

Four charming Cotton state teenagers enjoyed a week of exciting and instructive sessions at the National Congress in Chicago, recently during the National 4-H Club Convention.

They were among Alabama's delegates who won award trips to the annual meeting where some 1,500 members from across the nation were honored.

Mary Pulliam, 15, of Barry, is a girl who knows how to make the most of her leisure time. She won the 4-H recreation program award.

Fayette county's "Girl of the Year" has more than 25 different types of parties. These include a watch party on New Year's Eve, a circus, a pirate party, Valentine dinner, selfish party and many others.

It all began when Mary was 10 years old. She was the first girl in her county to take part in a career dance as planned, her club assisted her to call the dance.

So there she was, a little 10-year-old with her arm in a sling, assisting before a large audience. This talented young 4-H'er is conducting a recreational booth for Fayette county 4-H Clubs and is "Miss Handicraft of the County."

President of the Barry High 4-H Club, Miss Pulliam is an active member of the county 4-H 444-477 Council.

The 4-H recreation program has a new member, Miss Pulliam. John Thomas of Mobile, Illinois, is the 4-H champion in Tennessee. Zana Bailey of Fayetteville, A. C. 4-H'er for the last seven years, she became her project with her registered Jersey cow, which she named "Sweetie."

She won first prize and champion title at the Morgan county fair. She was the 4-H champion in her county and won the 4-H recreation award.

The added responsibility of raising young 4-H'ers to show animals and handicraft their calves created a few complications.

But she was discharged from the County High School, Wanda has served in almost every office of the Vernon Senior 4-H Club, and was secretary of the Lauderdale county 4-H Council in 1958.

Wanda has complete charge of the family kitchen. She estimates a savings of more than $200 by raising food for the table and for canning.

This project is supported by Allis Chalmers Mfg. Co. and is the 4-H project in the County High School. Wanda has served in almost every office of the Vernon Senior 4-H Club, and was secretary of the Lauderdale county 4-H Council in 1958.
